Breast Care Center of Florida

Kamy R. Kemp, M.D.

OUR PRACTICE: Dr. Kemp is one of a handful of board-certified breast surgeons who is also accredited by the American College of Radiology to interpret mammograms as a radiologist in an imaging center. ONE DOCTOR, MULTIPLE SKILLS: A breast cancer patient typically has as many as four doctors involved in the diagnosis - a radiologist to read the screening mammogram, a second doctor to do the diagnostic imaging and ultrasound, a third to perform a biopsy and a fourth physician to manage the case once the diagnosis is made. At the Breast Care Center of Florida, Dr. Kemp performs all of these functions. TRAINING AND QUALIFICATIONS: Nine years of training were needed for Dr. Kemp to develop this set of skills. This is in contrast to a general surgeon who has five years of training or a radiologist who may have had four years of training if he or she is not subspecialized. WHAT OUR SKILLS CAN MEAN FOR YOU: A patient who recently came to our office had been told at an imaging center that she needed five biopsies. Because Dr. Kemp acts as the radiologist and the surgeon, biopsy techniques are approached with thoughtful planning because the necessary surgery is known. In this particular case, only two biopsies were needed at the Breast Care Center of Florida instead of the five that were advised.
